DIAMOND PRINCESS CRUISE SHIP BECOMES THE LARGEST COVID-19 OUTBREAK OUTSIDE OF CHINA

In early February 2020, Princess Cruises' Diamond Princess cruise ship made headlines across the globe as the ship, its 2,666 passengers and 1,045 crew members became the epicenter of the largest outbreak of the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) outside of China and were on the leading edge of a once-in-a-lifetime deadly pandemic. Anthony (Tony) Kaufman, a Princess Cruises senior executive who had managed numerous life-threatening incidents during his career, was appointed Away-Team Incident Commander and sent to Tokyo, Japan, to lead the crisis response.

Using this extraordinary real-world example, through stories, pictures and videos, in Leading from the Eye of the Storm, Tony takes the audience on a journey from the initial stages of the crisis to its final resolution. He discusses in detail key principles of leadership and emergency response, including numerous legal considerations encountered, giving the audience insight into how crisis management and legal theory presents itself in practice.

Tony recounts in detail:

- How the crisis and response unfolded
- The pressures impacting the response team and his own personal stress factors and reactions to managing a team in a life and death situation
- Creating a safe place for the team to do difficult work
- Certain legal considerations such as international law, lack of negotiating leverage, privacy and other matters that were raised
- How the culture and core values of the company were instrumental in guiding the decisions of the team
- The countless obstacles faced throughout the response and how these and other critical path issues were resolved
- How emotional intelligence played a crucial role in the resolution
- Fascinating and instructive behind-the-scenes stories that occurred along the way

While no two crises are the same, the insights provided and real-life lessons learned will be invaluable to anyone who leads teams, finds themselves on the front line of a crisis or has the responsibility to prepare for one.

And for those not in crisis management, it's still an incredibly interesting story.
